

Lund University 350th Jubilee Alumni Homecoming Weekend 20-22 October 2017

Programme at Lund University Centre for Sustainability Studies (LUCSUS) and the International Institute for Industrial Environmental Economics (IIIEE).

Friday, October 20

At LUCSUS, Biskopsgatan 5

14.15-16.00 LUCSUS and the education in Sustainability Science over the past years and future pathways & Current research in Sustainability Science (10 minute presentations)

Programme in detail:

- 14:15 LUCSUS and the education in Sustainability Science over the past 20 years and future pathways, Barry Ness, Associate professor at LUCSUS
15. Short break
- 15.15 From global to personal change: Tackling the climate challenge. Kimberly Nicholas, Senior lecturer at LUCSUS
- 15.25 Navigating global sustainability challenges with modern maps. A brief look at how spatial data and geographic information are being used to investigate sustainability challenges. Murray Scown, Postdoctoral fellow at LUCSUS
- 15.35 Science and Sustainable Coastal Development - How to keep our beaches beautiful in an age of environmental change. Chad Boda, Doctoral Student at LUCSUS
- 15.45 "Local energy transitions – energy justice in community energy projects in Germany and Denmark" I present research on the social interactions of two prominent cases of community energy. Henner Busch, Researcher at LUCSUS
- 15.55 Fem fighters - In order to foster a sustainable world, we must first have an equitable one. The Fem Fighters began as part of the knowledge-to-action course, focusing on understanding and addressing the lack of connection between gender and sustainability. Now, the group has initiated action, and hosts workshops, negotiates with the university, and spreads awareness of not only gender issues, but also environmental ones. Brynn Szukala, Josephine Ylipää and Therese Hågerup, LUMES batch 20 students
- 16.05 Ecological democracy in the urban: Citizen municipal movements in Barcelona. Mine Islar, Associate senior lecturer
- 16.15-17 Drinks, snacks and mingle!

Saturday, October 21

At IIIEE, Tégnerplatsen 4

14.15-15.00 "Interdisciplinary Education for the Future: Meeting Global Challenges"

A roundtable discussion with researchers from the International Institute for Industrial Environmental Economics (IIIEE) and Lund University Centre for Sustainability Studies